There were seven Jolly Model "A" owners of average intelligence, Who rented a ten passenger van. The intelligence comes into question on several fronts , why would you rent a ten passenger van when only seven are going? who with any brains would leave at 4:00AM. And then to cap it off why would it take seven men of average intelligence all the way to Wichita and back to Kans City before they figured out how to fasten their seat belts? Much more to this story just don't have room.
